Lev Lapidus

Lev I. Lapidus, a leading physicist at the Joint Institute for Nuclear Research, Dubna, USSR, died on 15 May. For more than 20 years he had been the Vice Director of JINR's Laboratory of Nuclear Problems, and was widely recognized for his theoretical work on a range of particle physics questions.